LAUDABLE SUBURBAN SCHEME.

System is one of the main objects of the Kaimuki and Palolo Improvement Club, so that what may be called variety in harmony may be attained, with regard to arboreal decoration of streets throughout the suburban tracts over which the club assumes jurisdiction. A committee has drafted a tree planting scheme that will be considered at a general meeting of the club next Friday evening.

This scheme is thus far merely tentative and subject to amendment under competent advice. An application of the club to the Government for seedlings to plant has been met with the promise of about three thousand, comprising various species. In drawing up the scheme regard has been paid to the location of avenue and street. Hardy trees without flowers are chosen for the more exposed situations, such as ironwood for Koko Head avenue, upon the Waiālae ridge, and trees that produce bloom are marked for the more sheltered thoroughfares.

It will no doubt be interesting to residents of other sections, whether contemplating the organization of improvement clubs or not, to know something of the Kaimuki and Palolo scheme. A synopsis of it is here given, showing length in feet of road, following its name, and number of trees proposed, following their respective designations:

Koko Head avenue, 1200; Albizzia Lebbek, 50; ironwood, 200; alternating one to four.

Twelfth avenue, 3900; eucalyptus globulus, 200; pepper, 200; alternating. Center street, 850; eucalyptus and pepper, 45 each.

Eleventh avenue, 4500, golden shower and poinciana 130 each, alternating.

Tenth avenue, 6000, poinciana 300. This avenue extends across Kaimuki and Palolo until it becomes the new loop road into Palolo valley.

Ninth avenue, 6000, yellow shower 300.

Eighth avenue, 5400, kukui and pepper, 240 each, alternating.

Seventh avenue, 4500, eucalyptus robusta and pink shower, 175 each, alternating.

Sixth avenue, 1800, pride of India, 120. Waiālae road, 3500, Albizzia Lebbek, 200; Bougainvillea (vine), 25, or three to each block on either side.

This road is part of the main highway from the ocean at the eastern side of this island, leading, through King or Beretania streets and the Ewa road, to Ewa, Waiānae, Waiālae, etc., on the western and northern shores, around to the pali and into town again by Nuuanu street. When repaired, as hoped it will be, through vote of the coming Legislature and in the process reconstructed to fit the part straightened out for the Rapid Transit line, Waiālae road is certain to become one of the most popular, as it is among the finest scenic, driveways near Honolulu. Its decoration as schemed by the improvement club committee, would make it a joy to tourists, who always have their eyes open for features of a tropical character when taking in the sights.

PREVENTION OF APPENDICITIS.

Apropos of the recently-stated revulsion of at least a portion of the medical faculty from the use of the knife in appendicitis, it may be mentioned that in the January number of the Nineteenth Century, Dr. James Hind offers a simple code of preventives against the malady, which he maintains will be surely effective if observed. His rules are:

"Do not neglect chills, when overheated.

"Masticate your food well, and eat slowly, never swallowing food that has not been thoroughly chewed.

"Avoid aperient salts, Hungarian or medicinal waters, liver pills and all purgatives."

Dr. M. A. Legrand, an eminent army surgeon of France now retired, has promulgated a preventive for seasickness, which his researches show to have been effective in 67 per cent of the cases. It is nothing more nor less than a plant band that will sufficiently compress the abdominal wall to prevent displacement of the viscera. Now, if some one will discover an effective specific for the remaining 33 per cent of cases, everybody may go to sea without qualms of the gastric economy.

A correspondent of the New York Nation takes strong exception to a condemnation by Dr. Wiley of borax as a food preservative. It is for the scientific investigators to decide what is food and what poison for the average man. Then the duty of the legislator comes in view, to see that poisons are not fed to the people. But doubts of science in these matters ought, in soonest time possible, to be resolved.

SHIPPING PROMOTION BILL.

In support of its measure submitted to Congress the present session, the joint merchant and marine commission says that an adequate American ocean fleet would mean the saving to this country of $100,000,000 a year, which now goes to build up the commercial power and naval strength of Europe and Asia. It is emphasized by the commission that the naval subventions offered in the proposed bill are not bounties outright or mere commercial subsidies, but are distinctly based on important public services to be given by the ships and ship owners that receive them. Not a dollar is proposed to be added to the expenditures for any of the five established contract ocean mail lines. With the exception of certain new routes to be established and a new requirement as to naval volunteers, the present ocean mail act is not proposed to be amended. The commission takes issue with the War Department on the question of whether a saving to the Government has resulted from the operation, in time of peace, of lines of foreign-built craft in the army transport service. A discontinuance of the transport service is urged, the report in this regard saying:

"To all members of the commission who visited the Pacific Coast this procedure of the War Department appeared to be absolutely indefensible. It is true that in his recent annual report the quartermaster general of the army figures out a profit of $338,236 for the transport service as compared with the rates which commercial steamers would have charged, but this profit, as a matter of fact, is altogether due to a radical difference in bookkeeping methods between commercial steamship companies and the quartermaster's department."

Of eleven sections the bill contains, the first provides for creating a force of naval volunteers capable of service in time of war. The Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor are directed to make an enrollment of officers and men, now and hereafter employed in American merchant and deep-sea fishing vessels, who shall receive an annual retainer at the end of each year.

The second section provides for subsidies as follows, payable after July 1, 1906, per gross registered ton in each case to vessels engaged in the foreign trade and in deep-sea fisheries: Vessels so engaged twelve months, including time for annual or extraordinary repairs, $5; nine months or over, $4; six months or over, $2.50. In the third section it is provided that vessels receiving the subvention may be taken by the United States, at a fair compensation, for national defense and any public purpose; also that on the Postmaster General's requirement the vessels shall carry the mails free of charge, that one-sixth of the crews shall be citizens of the United States and that when possible repairs be made in the United States.

Contracts under the third section are by the fourth provided to be for one year and renewable from time to time, all subventions, however, being limited to a period of ten years. Sections fifth and sixth direct the Postmaster General to enter into contracts, for not less than five nor more than ten years, for the carrying of mails in steamships built and registered in the United States, between ports of the United States and foreign ports.

Rates affecting the Pacific Coast are as follows: Pacific Coast ports, via Hawaii, to Japan, China and the Philippines, sixteen knots speed, monthly service, $300,000; fortnightly, $600,000; Pacific Coast port to Japan, China and the Philippines, thirteen knots speed, monthly service, $210,000; fortnightly, $420,000; Pacific Coast port to Mexico, Central America and the Isthmus of Panama, twelve knots speed, fortnightly service, $120,000.

The tonnage tax on foreign vessels entered in United States ports is provided for in section eight, as follows: "That a duty of 8 cents per net ton, not to exceed in the aggregate 80 cents per net ton in any one year, is hereby imposed at each entry by sea on all vessels which shall be entered in any port of the United States from any foreign port or place in North America, Central America, the West India Islands, the Bahama Islands, the Bermuda Islands, the coast of South America bordering on the Caribbean Sea or Newfoundland; and a duty of 16 cents per net ton, not to exceed in the aggregate $1.60 per net ton in any one year, is hereby imposed at each entry by sea on all vessels which shall be entered in any port of the United States from any other foreign port or place, not, however, to include the vessels in distress or not engaged in trade."

Country correspondents within inhaling distance of the centrifugals do their share, in their interesting budgets, toward hoisting the prices of sugar stocks.

RESERVISTS SHOT DOWN IN MOSCOW

BERLIN, January 11.—Reports of the worst reservist excesses that have yet occurred in Russia have just been received here. A few days ago a troop train left Dvinsk for Warsaw via Smolensk. When the train arrived at Warsaw 3,000 soldiers began to demolish the stores in the principal streets. The citizens were panic-stricken.

The Governor endeavored in vain to quiet the reservists. The garrison was called out, and the soldiers were stoned by the reservists. The Governor ordered the troops to fire, and 200 reservists were killed. The hospitals are filled with wounded. The Colonel commanding the reservists returned to Dvinsk and shot himself there. Another officer killed himself on the way from Dvinsk to Smolensk.

A large number of reservists are now in prison. They declare that they do not want to be needlessly slaughtered. "Put us in prison," they say. "If we go to war we shall be killed. It is better to be sent to Siberia than to be sacrificed for nothing. Prison is warmer than Manchuria."

Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, Minister of the Interior, recently advised the provincial governors to do what they could to prevent dissatisfaction among the soldiers. Some of the governors made the unfortunate suggestion that their destination be not communicated to the troops. This has only resulted in further excesses.

WORDS OF WISDOM TO HONOLULU STUDENTS

Today are old tomorrow. The railway trains that are annihilating distance today would be marvels to the forty-niner. Yet steam is being supplanted by electricity and tomorrow electricity will be supplanted by some new power, or will be used in such a different form that it will be unrecognizable. Yet the electricity that drives our cars today is as old as these surrounding hills. It is only that the mind of man has awakened to its existence and has harnessed it to do his bidding. So we keep working on, subduing new forces of nature.

"But man must do more than master the winds and all the powers of nature. Above all it is necessary that he master self. In the body given to him by God are the possibilities of a great and glorious future or a great disgrace. We must give our lives to him whom we call 'Father.' If we give the best that is in us to our age and generation we are making the world richer because we have lived."

"Every one of you has possibilities in himself that nobody else has. God has given us an exalted station, 'a little lower than the angels.' Yet we must not expect to become great all at once. The baseball player cannot go out on the diamond and line out a home run the first day. A girl cannot go into the kitchen and cook a dinner at once, she will make many mistakes before she is successful. I spoiled many sheets of paper before I learned to write. A flower will not spring from a plant the day it is put into the ground. The plant must grow and prepare to produce the flower, the rain must fall upon it and the sun shine on it first."

"So we can gain inspiration from our surroundings, from the mountains and the valleys, the streams and the trees, from the waves that break on the curving sands, from all the beautiful manifestations of nature. It is no slight privilege to live in this age. 'We all have the privilege of asking ourselves this question every day, 'Are you satisfied with what you have done this day toward bringing out the best in your life?' The responsibilities of today must be met today, there will be new ones tomorrow. Have you met today's responsibilities? Try for one day to live so as to bring out the best in your life. I think that the inspiration it will give you will make you want to make every day such a one. You must realize that every impulse thought injures you not only today, but for eternity. Every unkind word or deed not only injures yourself, but those with whom you come in contact. We say that we meet and that we pass the time of day, but we do more. My soul touches yours and we are influenced each by the other's life for good or evil."

"There are three ways in which each life may most fully realize its possibilities: First, by making the most of itself; second, by touching other lives with an uplifting influence, and third, by recognizing its own dependence on God. We must keep the upper windows of our lives open toward heaven, that the light of God may shine in and we must likewise keep the earthly windows open for the influence of other lives and that our light may shine upon our fellow men. Young men and women, you soon will be the directors of affairs, upon you will be the responsibilities of city and nation. Strive to make the most of your lives that they may leave an impress of good on your fellow men. If evil creeps into your lives ask the question, 'If Christ were here would I do this thing?' and then ask yourself whether it is not true that Christ is here today and all the time. Strive day by day, month by month, for the best that is in you, that there may be great returns for yourself and for others, for so you can best serve God whom we call our Father."

Old as the Pyramids

And as little changed by the ages, is Scrofula, than which no disease, save Consumption, is responsible for a larger mortality, and Consumption is its outgrowth.

It affects the glands, the mucous membranes, tissues and bones; causes bunches in the neck, catarrhal troubles, rickets, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, cutaneous eruptions, etc.

"I suffered from scrofula, the disease affecting the glands of my neck. I did everything I was told to do to eradicate it, but without success. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the swelling in my neck entirely disappeared and my skin resumed a smooth, healthy appearance. The cure was complete." in your mind that electric light is the best light for your home. It far surpasses any other light, both in its economy and its advantages. Electric light is a pure white light. It requires no matches. It is clean, safe, cheap, and reliable. It never smokes. All other lights require matches and are more or less dangerous and dirty. Taking everything into consideration there is no light so desirable, so pleasing, nor so economical as electric light.
